Council Deals With Routine Matters

R.C. Cafe Given One Month
To Clean Up or be Closed Up;
West Coleman Resident Says
Property Sinking, Asks for Repairs.

A regular council meeting was held on Monday evening following a lengthy court revision. Present Mayor, Antubus, Councillors Aboussafy, Dutil, Ford, Jenkins and Ramsay.

Mrs. Skocz was given permission to have a roadway built along side her property in West Coleman, wide enough to allow her to drive her car from the garage at the rear to the main street. Width and length of the roadway was determined by the Works and Property committee.

A letter will be written to the Minister of Lands and Mines asking that he prohibit the dumping of ashes in Nez Perce creek.

A letter will be written to the town solicitor and sent to the one party who so far has showed no inclination of paying his fire brigade assessment.

Constable Wm. Antle was authorized to purchase a new uniform.

A police report covering the past four months revealed that 44 cases had been tried. They covered charges from manslaughter to disorderly conduct. The town will benefit from all fines collected under the liquor act.

The police report dealt severely with sanitary conditions at present prevailing at the B.C. Cafe. In the past this cafe has been condemned by provincial and local health inspectors as well as the local police. Two councillors were in favor of closing it down since the building belongs to the town, having been taken over some time ago for non-payment of taxes. Following a letter it was decided to give the present tenants 30 days in which to thoroughly clean the place, failure to do so will result in the place being closed with the probability of it being torn down.

The report also dealt with measures taken to prevent persons dumping used water in back alleys, boys creating a nuisance and other minor matters.

A local citizen was recommended for the Old Age pension.

George Grosko, in a letter, stated that his house was being damaged due to the ground sinking underneath it. He blamed the cause on underground workings alleged to have been done by International Coal & Coke Co. some years ago. He also stated that he had been promised repairs when other houses in the neighborhood were being repaired but so far has failed to receive them. He asked the council's co-operation in getting the necessary repairs. Attention to this matter will be asked by council from the International Co.

Third reading was given the bill striking the school assessment rate at 26 mills. $47,000 is the amount required to operate the schools for the coming year.

A hospital bill created by Hilda Danyluk at an Alberta city will be taken to court on June 26 in an effort to have council pay it. The letter informing council of this was handed over to town solicitor Bannan.

Annual convention of Alberta municipalities will be held at Calgary's city hall on June 25 and 26. It was moved that the Mayor, all councillors and secretary-treasurer desiring to make the trip were free to do so as representatives of the town of Coleman.

LOCAL ELKS TRIM BLAIRMORE IN SOFTBALL GAME

Coleman Elks trampled rough-shod over their Blairmore brethren on Sunday afternoon at the local sports field when they soundly trounced the Blairmore softball team 13-2.

Blairmore was handicapped by the strong pitching arm of Joe Jenkins who only allowed two runs. Meantime the local clan were having a field day at the expense of the Blairmore pitcher and romped home with thirteen runs.

A return game is being played at Blairmore tonight.

Coleman Lions are now waiting and ready to challenge the local antlered head to a championship game.

Coleman's team included this star-studded line-up: Pete Smith, Bill Ferby, Wilf Dutil, Joe Picuk, Sonny Richards, Stan, Atkinson, Bill Gate, Tony DeCecco and Joe Jenkins.

BOB BOWMAN AND WEST COAST DEFENCES

R. T. "Bob" Bowman has spent eighteen months of the war in Britain and the rest looking for trouble on the high seas, covering the story of Canada's expanding services and defences, getting in a game or two of golf, plugging his superiors for new marching orders. Recently it was announced that he would conduct a get-fit radio class from Toronto. Instead of the programme came a cable. Bowman was back in Britain to dig up and broadcast the weekly commentary of news from there for Canadians at home. He will be heard Sundays at 5.30 p.m. CDT, 4.30 p.m. MDT. The picture shows Bob interviewing the crew of a defence battery on the Canadian west coast sometime early this spring.

Blairmore Brothers Meet on Ship in Mid-Atlantic

W. R. Youschuk Landed in Great Britain Along with Dan Daly.

A letter has recently been received by Mrs. Daly from her son, Dan, which reveals that ACE W. Youschuk landed in Great Britain in the same contingent as Dan.

He relates an interesting story about Jim and Miller Stewart, of Blairmore, and brothers of Mrs. R. Johnson, of Coleman. Both these men were in different units which had received orders to go overseas. Much to their surprise one day in mid-Atlantic, while exercising on the ship, they bumped into each other. Neither had known the other was on the ship and so their meeting was one of genuine surprise and enjoyment.

Dan has already visited Scotland and says it is really beautiful. He plans on spending his next leave on a trip to Wales, where he has relatives.

Randall.

ASKS THAT DOGS BE KEPT OUTSIDE FENCE

Harold Willetts has been busy the past few weeks getting the town hall grounds into fine shape. Plants are healthy and the lawn is nice and green. He has only one request to ask and that is to leave dogs outside the fence. Some dogs have been guilty of damage by scraping earth away from the roots and tramping down plants.

Council, School Board Sit at Court of Revision

Hear Five Protests in Fairly
Lengthy Hearing; No
Assessment Changed.

Council and School Board sat at a court of revision on Monday evening. Present were Mayor Antubus, Councillors Aboussafy, Dutil, Ford, Jenkins, and Ramsay, and Trustees Churlia, Holly, Smaad and Sugler. J. S. D'Appollonia was present as assessor.

Five property owners protested their assessments, four on their homes and one on his lot. All protests were unsuccessful when compared to other property assessment rates in town.

During the past week it had been found necessary to re-assess some property that was causing discontent among other property holders nearby. The re-assessment had become necessary because when the original assessment was made the property had been incomplete and the assessor could only assess what was actually constructed. As time past, however, the house was completed but still carried the same assessment it did when incomplete thereby becoming an unjust assessment when compared to other homes in the vicinity.

Cases such as the aforementioned have now been rectified.

The protest on the lot was dismissed when the cost was found to conform with other lots in that area.

Rebekah Lodge Honors 7 Members With Jewels

Presentations Made by Mrs. C. F. Dunlop; Guests Present From Blairmore and Bellevue.

Recently a very impressive and pleasing ceremony was conducted by Victoria Rebekah Lodge, No. 7 when seven members were presented with their veteran's jewels. Four of them for having 25 years membership and three with 20 years membership.

Four ladies, Sister Lily Nelson, 25 years, Sister Ellen Hope, 20 years, and Sister Lottie Boulton, 20 years, received their veteran's jewels from the first Noble Grand of Victoria Rebekah Lodge, Sister C. F. Dunlop.

In making the presentations Sister Dunlop spoke of the start of the present lodge 33 years ago, when five people signed the charter, only two remaining in Coleman today, Mrs. Dunlop and Mr. J. O. C. McDonald.

March 9, 1909, Grand Master Mitchell, assisted by the Fernie degree team, instituted Victoria lodge, No. 7.

In 1910 the Rebekah Assembly was instituted and a member of Victoria lodge, Sister C. F. Dunlop was the first Grand Warden, and the following year was vice-president of the Assembly. Two members of Victoria lodge have been awarded the degree of Chivalry, one of the highest honors that can be conferred upon a Rebekah. These were presented to Sister Sarah Smith, of Drumheller and now a past president of the Assembly and to Sister Sarah Borrow, who still resides here. This degree is conferred only by the Patriarch Militant. Six members of the lodge have passed on while holding active membership, many others have moved away and now reside in practically every province in the Dominion.

Victoria Rebekah lodge also assisted at the institution of Crow View lodge, No. 66 at Blairmore, and Ray of Hope lodge, No. 67 at Bellevue.

Ten members have already received their veteran's jewel for at least 15 years of continuous membership.

Following the presentations made by Sister Dunlop, Grand Master James Cousins of the Grand Lodge of Alberta, presented Brother W. L. Borrow and Brother I. James with their 25-year jewels. Both these men became Oddfellows in Coleman. Fred Stokes, now of Cadomin, was also eligible for his jewel and this will be sent him.

Guests were present from Blairmore and Coleman and in addition the Oddfellows and their wives. Refreshments were served being followed by dancing, a very enjoyable evening being spent.

On Wednesday evening, May 27, Rebekah lodge held a very successful evening. The lodge was well attended and the program was most enjoyable. The evening was a great success and the members were very pleased with the results.

Scrap Old Vessel

98-Year-Old Ship Was First Armored Vessel To Sail Great Lakes

The 98-year-old U.S.S. Michigan, better known on the Great Lakes as the "Wolverine" is going to war—but not in one piece.

It has been decided to scrap the old vessel—the first armored ship to sail the lakes—and direct the metals to the current war effort.

Some quarters had fought the move on the grounds that the one-time pride of the navy should be preserved as a historic relic. But it was pointed out that the "Wolverine" had been permitted to disintegrate in the mud of Misery Bay in Lake Erie for the past several years.

The Statue Of Liberty

Lord Halifax Says Everyone Should See This Amazing Figure

Lord Halifax was in New York a few weeks ago and did a bit of sight-seeing. He took a boat trip out to Bedloe's Island to make a close inspection of the Statue of Liberty, that huge and familiar torched figure, the first glimpse of which every passenger on an incoming liner looks for when nearing the estuary from overseas. The British Ambassador was deeply impressed. "Tremendous," he ejaculated. "It is beautiful; everybody should see it."

Probably everybody who goes to New York does see it, but it is not enough to be satisfied with a look from the Battery wharf. Everybody should go over on the ferry and into the statue. As one approaches the island in the boat the statue appears to tower over all like a precipitous mountain. It almost takes one's breath away, but perhaps the greatest surprise a visitor may get is to see human faces peering out of the figure's hat, more than 300 feet above water level. How did people get in there? Then you find that you can go inside the statue at the base, ascend in a spacious elevator and emerge somewhere in the vicinity of the shoulders then climb up stairs in the head to the hat and view the vast perspective of Manhattan. Those who do not make the final climb can look from shoulder height.

There are 200,000 pounds of bronze in this 450,000 pounds figure, the waist is 35 feet thick, the index finger eight feet long, the whole hands 16 feet, the right arm holding the torch is 42 feet long and with a plect 12 feet thick, and the diameter of the head is 10 feet. Forty people can stand inside the head and 12 inside the torch. It is the most colossal figure ever made, and took Bartholdi five years to do it. The statue was put together in Paris in 1881, but five more years elapsed before it was bolted on the base on Bedloe's Island.

The Statue of Liberty was the gift of the French people to the people of the United States for what they had done in the cause of liberty everywhere and French liberty in particular. Today, the American people are again fighting for French liberty which the Vichy Frenchmen are seeking to destroy. The Statue of Liberty is now almost a mockery.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Shipments Are Smaller

Tea May Soon Come Under Voluntary Rationing Plan

Voluntary rationing of tea in Canada is under consideration by food control authorities, it is learned at Ottawa.

Tea shipments under the altered Pacific situation have recently been "pretty skinny," officials state. It is believed that voluntary restrictions on the amount consumed will soon have to be imposed in order to secure fair distribution of the available supply and reduce the total amount used.

If and when applied, tea rationing will follow the general pattern of present sugar regulations, officials intimate. Though the ration will be voluntary, there would be heavy penalties for violation of the regulations, overbuying and hoarding.

Discussing probable rationing of tea, officials asserted that the voluntary rationing of sugar had scored a success in Canada. Through public co-operation and general enforcement supervision, the system has succeeded beyond the hopes of the wartime prices and trade board at the time it was introduced, officials state.

This Is Something New

English Town Turns Swimming Pool Into Emergency Water Reservoir

Towns whose water supply is threatened by enemy action have been given a novel lead by the enterprising Thameside borough of Erith in Kent.

Erith, says the St. Thomas Times-Journal, has turned its swimming pool into a first rate emergency water reservoir for more than 200,000 people.

Normally the borough draws its water from the vast network of London's Metropolitan Water Board, but recently the local authority thought it prudent to make a survey of all available secondary supplies.

They found 14 deep wells in the district. Eight were used for industrial purposes only, one for both drinking and industry, one for public bathing at the Council's swimming pool, and four were abandoned.

Although the water from three of the deep wells was found to be suitable for drinking, and could in any emergency be worked by National Fire Service pumps, the most prolific source proved to be the swimming pool of 70,000 gallons. The well serving it yields 20,000 gallons of water an hour, and a total of 17,000 gallons of chlorinated water an hour can now be served from the three existing stand pumps.

From this one source, therefore, 408,000 gallons of water can be had for drinking every 24 hours, with 70,000 gallons always in reserve.

Allowing two gallons per head per day Erith's swimming pool would therefore serve a population of 204,000.

BRITAIN'S FOREST AREA

In the whole world there are approximately eleven and a half million square miles of forest, and of this, two and a half million belong to the British Empire. The only countries that can rival us are Russia and Brazil. Russia actually contains as many square miles of forest as the Empire, and Brazil has two million. Germany contains a very small proportion of the world's forests.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JUNE 7

FRIDAY: THE DAY OF SUFFERING (2)

Golden text: He was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities; the chastisement of our peace was upon him; and with his stripes we are healed. Isaiah 53:5. Lesson Mark 15:33, 34; Luke 23:33-46. (Compare John 19:25-30. Devotional Reading: Psalm 22:1-5; 14-19.

The Crucifixion, Luke 23:33, 34. When they came to the place outside the city of Jerusalem which is called The Skull (Golgotha Aramaic, Calvary Latin, Calvary English), they crucified him. "There might be no doubt about the disgracefulness of the Saviour's sufferings, they hung him between two thieves" (Brooks). "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do." This prayer of Jesus was for the men whose duty it was to nail him to the cross, and were casting lots for his garments but also, we may well believe, for the Jewish Sanhedrin, his long-time enemies, who were guilty of bringing about his death but who acted blindly, without fully realizing the enormity of their deed.

The Mockery, Luke 23:35-38. As the men who crucified him divided his garments among themselves (the headband, the shoes, the outer robe, and the girdle) and cast lots for the seamless inner robe (John 19:23, 24), the people stood around calmly watching and the rulers scoffed at him, saying, "He saved others; let him save himself, if this is the Christ of God, he chosen." And the soldiers also mocked and cried, "If thou art the king of the Jews, save thyself," as they offered him the customary drink of vinegar. And there was a superscription over him which read, This is the King of Jews. It was customary to affix to a cross an inscription naming the crime committed by the one crucified. Pilate could ascribe no crime to Jesus, and he had this inscription written so as to annoy the priests who, as he expected, considered it an insult to themselves: read Jn. 19:21. The inscription was in Hebrew, Latin and Greek, the languages then spoken throughout the civilized world, and all who passed by could read it. "In place of this superscription the eye of faith sees another. Behold the Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world."

Health LEAGUE of CANADA presents TOPICS of VITAL INTEREST

DIET FOR WORKERS

How much should an industrial worker eat in order to attain maximum efficiency in wartime production?

When the Congress on Industrial Health gathered recently in Chicago, Dr. A. C. Ivy, well-known physiologist of Northwestern University, gave the Congress some enlightening facts on a worker's food requirements.

Most men working in munitions plants are on the job at least eight hours a day. Minimum requirement for eight-hour laborers is a diet containing 3,500 to 5,000 calories a day. This is considerably more than a white-collar worker's requirements.

Powerful men working longer hours require even a greater allowance—up to 6,000 calories above the basal requirements.

As to what the diet should consist of—Dr. Ivy said those items usually on a worker's menu are adequate, if the vitamin and mineral content is sufficient. Heavy muscular work does not increase the requirement for protein but it does increase the requirement for fat and carbohydrate.

However, warns Dr. Ivy, the fat content of a man's diet should not be too large, as some men's stomachs will not tolerate it.

Foods high in mineral content are milk, whole-grain cereal, enriched bread, meats, eggs, green-leaf vegetables. At least some of each of these important foods should appear on a worker's dinner table each day.

Grow Their Own

R.A.F. Stations Go Into Vegetable Gardening On Big Scale

R.A.F. stations are continuing this year the "dig for victory" campaign which yielded such excellent results last summer, writes the London Times Aeronautical correspondent. A great number of the airbases will be self-supporting in vegetables. Expansion of one fighter station brought in several extra acres of virgin land, and the transport officer, a member of a Lincolnshire farming family, borrowed a plow from a farmer friend and spent his evenings turning over the ground with the assistance of volunteers from the airbase. The extra acreage will enable the station to produce enough vegetables to supply all members.

THE NEW ORDER

Much of Britain's wartime organization can be made the basis of our postwar endeavor, said Norman Tipstaff, Lord Mayor of Birmingham. "I look forward, for instance, to community schools where the son of the Duke and the son of the Dustman will sit side by side in the better England of the future."

CHAPTER XXIV.

Tamar, in the car of her captor, felt the nausea of fear as the car increased its speed. They would never be able to stay on the road, she thought in terror as they followed the curves in dizzy skidding.

She bit her lips in determination. She must not speak. They would both be killed if the man had to divide his attention. After an interminable length of time he turned off the highway, but they had gone so far that the place was unfamiliar.

Tamar knew that he had one thing in his favor. No one would guess that she had been spirited away for perhaps hours yet. Of course, the man intended holding her only a few hours. Just until they had accomplished the hold-up of the truck.

The car came to a halt in a lonely spot on a country road.

"Now, my little lady. Everything is just lucky. I've already stuck my neck out. I'll be charged with kidnapping you if I'm caught. So we might as well sweeten up the pot. I'd say that your father's got a lot of money since the Cricket Hill has been opened up."

Tamar tried to look at him with contempt instead of the fright that she knew must be starting out of her eyes. "Kidnapping? But you wouldn't do that. Let me go, and you'll be safe." Her voice, weak with dread was almost a whisper. "I won't tell them I was kidnapped. You'd be safe. Take me back to the highway, and I'll get a ride back to Tahlahneka."

His laugh held the contempt of forgotten innocence. "No, I wouldn't be accused of kidnapping you! No! Well, I am holding you for ransom. Maybe that isn't called kidnapping in Georgia. But that's what they call it up North. Now, don't get tough, and if you do what I say, you'll get by. But I wouldn't hesitate to throttle you, young lady."

The man took a dirty handkerchief out of his pocket. Tamar drew back as he made preparations to tie it about her eyes. "I'll use your scarf to gag you, my dear. It might not be so distasteful as mine."

Tamar's white eyelids fluttered down and a tear trembled on the lashes. She opened them wide and said in cold hatred: "You're a filthy beast. If Ransome Todd or my father ever get their hands on you, they will kill you for a rat."

"A rat?" He laughed. "That's my name, lady, Louie the Rat. But you gotta smile when you say it, from now on. Only my best friends call me that, and they always smile." He jerked her head around and tied the handkerchief over her eyes.

Tamar felt his hands and screamed. "Keep your hands off me, you beast!"

Cigarette Tobacco

Tamar stood small and slender. She couldn't let him see how frightened she was. That would please him too much.

"Now, if you want to get along with me, make yourself as agreeable as possible. I'll get some wood. You go see what's in the pantry. And remember not to try to run away. There's wild animals around these parts. Understand?" He glared up into her face.

"Yes."

She saw that the main room was large, and that a small kitchen and a bedroom opened off at the end. The place was furnished with a few simple chairs, tables, a radio and studio couch. A bearskin rug lay in front of the big stone fireplace and a few pictures were on the walls. Mostly hunting scenes, dogs and horses.

The mantel over the fireplace held a silver cup, a statue of a horse and rider done in marble, and a clock. Dust lay over all in a very thin film, which made her believe that it had not been long since it had been cleaned. It was surprisingly tidy.

Tamar moved mechanically toward the kitchen, and knew that Louie was following her to light the lamp swinging from the low ceiling. Evidence of a recently eaten meal were upon the bare brown table top. A little coffee remained in the two cups, and stale bread lay upon two heavy plates.

Tamar shuddered. Louie threw open a cabinet door. "Look in here, and select the menu, and make it plenty. I'm hungry."

He went out the back door, and as it slammed heavily she began to cry.

She could hear him coming in, and she could not control her tears. "Shut up!" he growled. "Helpless, eh? Don't even know how to pick out the grub. I can show you how to cook it!"

Tamar was shaking so that the table which she leaned against shook. Too, she was ashamed that she was crying, because it would only serve to anger him.

"Guess you're cold. There ought to be a sweater in the bedroom." It was the first kind thing that he had said, and she wondered if it were only to prevent her from getting sick with a cold that he would think of it. That would hamper his collecting the ransom.

Dozens of questions raced through her mind. How could he contact her father? And where could he get enough money to satisfy his demand? How long would she have to stay here, and would she be safe with him? To whom did the cabin belong?

Louie walked over to the fireplace and threw the wood down in a big box. He knelt down and laid paper and small kindlings on the andirons. With a quick roar the flames caught the oil sawdust and the smaller wood began to snap and crackle.

Tamar went into the bedroom to look for a wrap. She could see the interior of the room from the light of the fireplace. There was a roughly built bed of native cedar and a dresser with a square mirror over it. One corner of the room held garments on a rod, and she touched them reluctantly. Instead of using anything, she pulled the blanket from the end of the bed and wrapped it about her.

"Touchy, eh? Well, my girl has a jacket here somewhere. I'll find it." Louie picked up the lamp from the table and went into the bedroom. Opening the dresser drawers, he rummaged around and exclaimed with satisfaction.

She could see that it was an expensive made jacket, now with bright colored leather pockets. He held it open mockingly. "There's would be chawmed to have you wear it," he said mockingly. "I'll get her tomorrow, so the little wildcat won't be jealous knowing that we've been here alone."

Once more nausea swept over Tamar. How could she bear this?

"Come over now and warm up your hands. You've got a little letter to write to your father."

Break For Chinese

Seamen On British Merchant Ships Get Increase In Pay

Thousands of Chinese seamen employed on British merchant ships have just received a extra war-risk compensation and improved working conditions as a result of negotiations between the Chinese Ambassador to Great Britain and the British Ministry of War Transport. Under the terms of the agreement, a Chinese seaman will receive an increase of about $8 a month over the former wage scale of about $23 a month paid to most Chinese seamen.

Due To Rationing

New Figures For Madame Tussaud's

Exhibition Have No Clothes Rationing, particularly the controls soap and clothing, has gone beyond the British family in this war and struck at the wax figures in Madame Tussaud's famed exhibition. So far as clothing for the models goes, these are more difficult days in the wax works, perhaps than at any time since 1802 when the late Madame Marie Tussaud came to England from France and started her show. She had been attached to the household of a sister of King Louis XIV, and learned the making of wax imitations prior to the French Revolution. Ready for display now are three new figures—Sir Stafford Cripps, Gen. MacArthur and Rt. Hon. William Temple the new Archbishop of Canterbury. They are designed by Bernard Tussaud, great-grand grandson of Madame Tussaud, but they need clothes before appearing in public.

And in wartime London new clothes mean ration coupons, which on turn mean going to the Board of Trade for purchasing points. As a rule a Tussaud figure can be clad for 45 to 50 ration points—plus cash, but in happier days cash was only requisite. When clothing is obtained for the three new figures they will join a company of prominent figures ranging from the sitting image of a sour and cynical-facéd Voltaire to such modern personages as tennis-playing Donald Budge and Prime Minister Churchill. Latest recruit to the company is the Russian Marshal Timoshenko. His vivid Russian blue coat and riding trousers with red facings and big top boots took the full number of ration coupons. Next to clothes rationing the biggest operating problem at the show springs from soap control. Before the war six figures were taken from the show every day to have their hair washed and groomed, their faces and hands sponged and their clothes, if necessary renewed. But now soap is at a premium, so the treatment is less frequent and is done with liquid soap which isn't rationed.

FIGHT WITH LOBSTER

Hauling his lobster traps to the surface the other day, Charles Beaver, living 20 miles east of Halifax, discovered an 18-pound lobster tangled in the lines. He reached out to seize the Crustacean, but the lobster seized him. In the ensuing struggle Beaver fell into the water. A nearby fisherman came to his assistance and Beaver was pulled out with the giant lobster still clamped to his wrist.

Gardening

Must Thin

Thinning, as any experienced gardener will confirm, is most essential. Thinning when left alone is ruthless. Killing or crowding out the weaklings. Of the three to five thousand seedling pines that normally start to grow on an acre of land, less than a hundred are permitted to reach full maturity three-quarters of a century later. In gardening this stern but sound example must be followed. If left overcrowded, flowers become spindly and weak, easy prey for the first stiff wind, heavy rain or hungry insects. Vegetables, too, get spindly or woody.

Summer Care

The well started, carefully planned garden will now require little care and should be returning big dividends in pleasure, beauty and really fresh vegetables. Aside from gathering flowers and salad materials right at the door, there is little to do. Grass should not be cut more often than is necessary to keep it in check. Both flowers and vegetables will benefit from a little cultivation during July, and if flowers are picked regularly the plants will keep on blooming.

Garden Pests

Garden insect enemies are divided into two groups—those that eat holes in the foliage and those that suck out the juices. For the first-named poison is usually applied—for the second, a burning spray. Often when both are present, a combination of poison and something that burns gives the best results. The damage from the biting insects is usually quite apparent, but the presence of the other kind is only shown at first by a wilting or withering of the foliage.

For sucking pests, chief of which are the aphids or plant lice, spray with whale oil soap, a quarter pound of soap to a gallon and a half of water; nicotine sulphate, or Black Leaf 40, or any other repellent secured from a reliable seed store.

When fungus attacks the plants the foliage usually turns yellow or brown, or white spots like measles cover the leaves. Spraying with Bordeaux Mixture or dusting with specially finely ground sulphur is advised.

Smoke them regularly!

Not His Worry

Southern Farmer Had Easy Way Of Avoiding Tough Question

The old-school Southerner, brimming with pride over his farm in the Alabama coastal region, was extolling its merits to a Northern friend. "Why, man," he said proudly, "the trees grow so thick on that land that you couldn't put your arm between them. And as for wildlife, deer are so big that their antlers have a spread of 10 feet!" The Northerner's eyes mirrored questions. He said, "It's interesting, Colonel, but how in the world do the deer get their antlers between those trees?" The colonel stammered, "That, uh," he replied pompously, "is their business!"

Employment office manager—Yes, that's right.

Jones—Well, it will give me the greatest pleasure if you will dine with me tonight.

Frank—I'll take you.

Naomi—Will you really? Then I won't bet after all!

Bore—Have I ever told you about the American in Paris?

Victim—Is it a long story?

Bore—No. You haven't.

"Oh, they're nothing to thank me for, Bobby."

"That's what I thought, but mother told me to thank you all the same."

"And if he is right?"

"Oh, that hasn't happened yet!"

He was reading the evening paper. "What a debt we owe to medical science!" he said.

"Good gracious," replied his wife. "Haven't you paid the doctor's bill yet?"

"I don't understand why mothers can't see the faults in their children," said Mrs. Jones.

"Do you think you could?" asked Mrs. Smith.

"Certainly I could, if my children had any."

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Here We Are Again

Two weeks silence of this column may cause people to surmise we have quit the job. It might be attributed to mental laziness or paucity of ideas or of topics on which to write. Where there are people there is (or are, which is correct?) news. Consequently there is no excuse for saying there was nothing to write about. But editors as well as working people in all other walks of life are liable to become lazy. If they are remiss in their work, the fact cannot be hidden, for people immediately say they're either lazy or simply can't write anything worth while. Possibly many say it already without having the words put into their mouths—or eyes.

This Is The Noisy Age

Some noises incline one to curse, and some types of radio programs are in this category. There are some types of people, too, who having nothing better to do, can listen to a radio blaring out good, bad and worse clap-trap all day long. They have little else to occupy their minds. You cannot escape this conflict or babel of noise except in the quietest recesses of your own home if it is isolated or not connected with nearby neighbors. It is a noisy age. "Juke boxes" give you music with your meals in restaurants, whether you like it or not. You get settled down, perhaps when things are quiet, when into the slot goes a nickel, dropped there by some youth to whom silence isn't golden, but is unusual—it's not normal for him.

So you suffer this nuisance in silence or get up and leave your meal to seek a place with a quieter atmosphere. No wonder this world seems at times cockeyed to older people. Instead of time being spent in learning something of the finer things of life, people seem to be seeking the sensational, the exciting and the empty things which pauperize the mind and tend to demoralize instead of elevate.

Jazz music has been termed "darkest Africa's bequest to the white race." At times we are convinced that the white man has no higher musical tastes than the Kaffirs or the Hottentots or the jungle dwellers. Even they would get tired of listening to a radio or a juke box all day long. People who like that kind of entertainment should be shut up with it till they become so thoroughly fed up they would cry out for relief from the torment.

Expression is More Satisfying Than Repression

Having relieved our minds of this diatribe, accompanied with a few inward curses as we write, we must turn to something more cheerful. It does you good to let off steam instead of continually repressing your thoughts or opinions. It acts as a safety valve, and you smile inwardly that at least you have got it off your chest, and feel that now you have stated your opinion on this and that, those who object are at perfect liberty to shoot their barbs. So, after the paper is out, we may hear from "conscientious objectors" who so thoroughly disagree with our comments that they feel compelled to write a "Letter to The Editor." Of course, if it results in nothing worse than that, it will be of interest to our readers to learn what others think about our random opinions. You see, this column is not written to influence public opinion. It's part of our weekly job, or should be, to at least give some semblance of reason why we should be kept on the pay-roll. If we keep on rambling many will conclude we should be fired without further notice.

The Rise and Fall of Radio Screen Stars

John Barrymore's death sounded a tragic and pathetic note. He came of a distinguished family of actors. His life was shortened by those excesses which in his film career he so truthfully portrayed. He was a great actor; that is without dispute. But as with brilliant people in any walk of life, they are subject to the depths of gloom. They are nearly always creatures of sentiment, highly sensitive and moody. The excitement, the glamor, the public applause which are the experiences of a star performer, make life such that it is difficult to settle down after the glamor days are over and age begins to compel retirement into the backdrop of life. Many cannot stand the contrast of a quiet life after their stage days are over, and either pine away or hasten their own ends rather than live a humdrum life void of the excitement to which they have been accustomed. It is something like the ordinary individual, who having an occasional celebration, hates to quit as long as he has the energy to stand on his feet. Then comes the dawn. So it is with the glamorous life. Those who are the stars have their eclipses, in far greater contrast than we who live a more or less humdrum life in which the most exciting thing may be an extra highball or two to make us happy and feel like millionaires for an hour or two.

Not very many are gifted with brilliant accomplishments which lift them above the average walks of life. But there are millions who plug along day after day at their appointed tasks just making a living and making their own fun or recreation. Life for them has its golden moments, which are appreciated to a far greater extent than they are by wealthier people, because they have to be worked and planned for, and even for which self-denial has to be practised to make their dreams come true. Everyone should have a vacation annually. This world is large enough to give everyone opportunities for better experiences than just plugging along day after day. As time goes on and social legislation becomes more advanced, as it has been for several years and will continue so to do, life in general will become more enlightened for the masses and labor will take its rightful place in the general scheme of things. Only by our own efforts for improvement will we climb to higher things, for we all must hitch our ambitions to a star; we must constantly keep a specific objective in view to climb upwards.

All is not gold that glitters. It applies to this newspaper. If you knew how we keep on plugging to build up local advertising, you would realize that it takes a lot of shoe leather. Nothing comes to be who waits. Sitting down behind the old cracker barrel playing checkers isn't done by those who are anxious to build business.

Citizens Wonder Conditions at Internment Camp With Many Hun Officers Escaping

One Hundred and Fifty Nazi Officers Removed to Another Camp—New Guards Arrive To Relieve Present Staff.

(The Canadian Statesman, Bowmanville, Ont.)

The spectacular break for freedom of Hun officers Wildermuth and Oeser, which occurred late Wednesday night, May 13, was short-lived. Both were recaptured May 15; the former as he sat in the Union Station, Toronto, and the latter while riding the rods of a freight train as it pulled into Belleville. A military policeman recognized Wildermuth from a photograph which had been broadcast and promptly made the arrest. Railway police at Belleville arrested Oeser on suspicion and soon discovered his identity. Both have been returned to the local Internment Camp under escort of Veterans Guards of 3A Company. This marks the third break of Oeser.

Secrecy has generally surrounded the various escapes from the Bowmanville Camp but questionings in parliament have lately forced admissions from Defence Minister Ralston who has had to explain the setting up of Courts of Enquiry following each escape. The matter of expense is becoming a heavy burden. The Statesman broke the news of the escape prior to this last one and revealed that it was effected in broad daylight. No admission of this was made until the Minister admitted it on the floor of the House. His statement was that escapes generally were due not to lack of security of wire and "physical" properties, but were due to the "human element," in other words, to laxity of personnel.

His report to parliament followed the report of the recent Court of Enquiry. The sequel is already becoming apparent in that a medical reckess is under way and several guards have been let out by way of honorable discharge, and others are up for boarding.

One of the "old sweats" when interviewed as he waited for a bus, showed both his discharge papers; that is the one of 1914-18, and the one just issued, but he had nothing to say except that he did his duty, was never "crimed" and apparently, is the picture of health. In the first war he enlisted at age 17, in November, 1914, and was discharged in May, 1919. In the present war he enlisted in June, 1940, when the call came for "old vets" and now he is out, and, in his words, about "down and out." His companion had equally distinguished service in both wars.

Both had been "scouts" inside the wire and whether their discharge was linked to alleged laxity in respect of recent escapes, cannot be determined. Their "honorable discharges" would refute the assumption. Their statements were that they had been boarded out and given the customary $35 to buy clothes but neither had a job to go to and no officer or authority so far as they knew, could or did suggest where they could get work, and both are family men. Such is one sidelight of the recent escapes.

The latest escape was effected in an ingenious manner and reflected alertness of the escapees and lack of alertness of supervisors. The facts are that some 161 Hun officers were to be moved north to another camp. Their clothes and blankets were packed in wooden boxes or hampers and Wildermuth and Oeser allegedly got mixed up with the blankets and were taken to the station in the truckload of crates, securely nailed in. "Handle with care" was (Continued on Page 5)

Since the outbreak of war, Canadian Junior Red Cross workers have given upwards of $500,000 to the various projects for which they work.

NEW SUGAR RATIONING CUT, WILL NOT AFFECT PRESERVING OR JAM MAKING

Made necessary owing to transportation difficulties, the new sugar rationing order of May 26 cuts down the amount of sugar permitted each person from three-quarters of a pound to half a pound each week. This order does not affect the one issued earlier in regard to extra sugar for canning fruit. It is permissible to use one-half pound of sugar for each pound of fruit in canning or preserving, and three-quarters of a pound of sugar per pound of fruit for making jams and jellies.

Fishing Season Started on Monday, June 1

Booklet Lists Rivers and Streams Open to The Angler.

Albert's fishing season got underway on Monday, June 1, but very few anglers were seen with rod and line, rivers being much too high and the weather too cold.

The provincial fisheries department has issued a booklet listing all rivers and creeks that are closed to the angler this season. Here is what it says as regards rivers and streams in which local anglers are interested:

"ALL streams within the Crows Nest Forest Division are closed except:

The main streams of the Old Man, Livingstone and Carbondale rivers.

Castle river upstream to its junction with the West branch of Castle River, in Sec. 16, Tp. 5, Rge. 3, west of the Fifth Meridian.

Lynx and Lost creeks tributaries to the Carbondale river.

North and south branches of Yarrow creek.

Racehorse creek downstream from the forks near the north east corner of Sec. 18, Tp. 10, Rge. 4, west of the Fifth Meridian.

Glacier (Ptolemy) creek.

Cigarette Fund Notes

Acknowledgment cards were received from the following soldiers this week: Bert Murray, George Burtnik, Ross and Roy Foster, and Johnny Raymond, L. Richards, G. McCulloch, J. T. Dunbar and Fred Hirst.

The following poem was received from Fred Hirst:

THERE WILL ALWAYS BE AN ENGLAND

There will always be an England
As long as Scotland's there
To give the Navy shelter
And the blunt of Air Raids bear.
There will always be an England
As long as Scotland fights
With Canadians, Welsh and Irish
To win Old England's might.
There are Canadians all in khaki,

Some in Navy blue,
Some are in the Navy
And in the Air Force too.
When we sing of England
And England in the fight,
We are not forgetting the Canadians
Who help win Old England's might Composed by A. Eckett (late R.G.A.)

Op'l. L. Richards expresses concern over rumors he has heard that the boys overseas do not need to be sent cigarettes. He states "this is a very false statement and has caused much concern among the boys over here."

Bert Murray states that the cigarettes are more welcome than ever now that Old Country cigarettes have been taxed another sixpence.

George Burtnik remarks that when he runs out of Canadian cigarettes he has to pay "two bob for twenty, which is pretty steep."

J. T. Dunbar who is stationed at No. 1 Neurological hospital states that the Canadian Legion in England is doing a fine job. They send a concert party to the hospital almost every week which is greatly appreciated by patients and staff alike.

Citizens Wonder

pointed on these parties boxes. When the guard was removed and the baggage car waited on the siding for the exodus next day, the two Huns prided off the lids, broke open the car window and departed. They left behind some canned goods and chocolate bars and evidently took different directions to confuse the hunt which did not get under way for some time. Mailman Gordon Moorcraft saw the crates and method of getaway when he hauled the mail for the early train.

Next day at noon the removal of the 151 Nazis as planned took place. Guards and policemen, including both Mounties and Provincial squads from headquarters, kept sharp vigilance as the Huns with their batmen marched in squads to the station, a distance of some two miles. Only a few spectators were found along the route and a few newsmen on hand to "snack" a picture or two but unnoticed plain clothesmen took care of all films and exposures (they thought). There was no untoward event to mar the occasion. It is estimated that there are left at the camp as prisoners about 750 officers.

The opinion is expressed that with guards being mustered out as they now are, it will be difficult to fill the ranks, but the present Company, 3A, is already under orders to depart elsewhere. Since the camp opened last September, there has been a constant succession of changes in personnel of officers and guards companies, most of which in the opinion of local observers is a mistake, but the assumption is that for every escape someone's head must fall to appease public opinion. New personnel has to learn Hun characteristics and in the meantime these wily and resourceful prisoners take advantage of the situation.

It is now definitely established that the escape previous to this last one was boldness epitomized. Here was the plan and it worked.

Hikers and Riders Invade Eagle's Domain

There are many ways of enjoying the scenic wonders of the Rocky Mountains, but none more intimate or soul-satisfying than following the less-frequented trails and byways, on horseback or on foot, under the friendly guidance of two of Canada's leading alpine societies—the Sky Line Trail Hikers and the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies.

Both groups have set the date and planned colorful itineraries for their annual outings which this year will cover some of the Rockies' major scenic highlights in the vicinity of Banff, Alta. The Trail Riders will set out from Banff Springs Hotel July 24, and will enjoy five days in the saddle, as well as the joys of camp life en route. Their main camp will be located at lovely Egypt Lake about half-way on the trail.

The Sky Line Trail Hikers, whose members rely on their own legs rather than horse-power, have their annual "safar" scheduled for July 31 to August 3. They too will start out from Banff, and armed with camera and alpenstock, will explore the district around Simpson Pass and nearby Sunshine Valley where their main camp will be located.

Founded by J. Murray Gibbon, general publicity agent for the Canadian Pacific Railway, both organizations have world-wide memberships, and continue to enroll new members every year. Each year they take to the trail, the Sky Line Hikers on foot, and the Trail Riders mounted on sure-footed mountain-bred horses.

The riders and hikers proceed leisurely, stopping at frequent intervals to fish for trout in the glacial waters of Rocky Mountain streams, "shoot" big game with their cameras, study interesting species of alpine flora, and marvel at the breath-taking panorama. And when day is done, they gather around friendly campfires for hearty meals, sing-songs and later sleep in tee-peeps or under the stars.

Holidays at Banff in the Canadian Rockies

Happy, carefree expeditions into the Canadian Rockies, comfortably far from the routine of civilization, are among the many health-giving amusements available to visitors at the Banff Springs Hotel, at Banff, Alberta, this season. These expeditions can be made on horseback with the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies, or on foot with the Trail Hikers. Both organizations are based in the Banff-Springs Hotel, where riding, hiking, golf, tennis and swimming are but a few of the vigorous activities which contribute to the success of a mountain holiday.

Physical fitness must be among the first personal rules of every citizen of the Allied countries in these days when the stress and strain of war makes exceptional demands on everyone. Holidays this year are being planned with increased fitness in view, and this is particularly true of Canadians, and visitors from the United States, who are including Banff in their holiday itinerary. The Canadian Pacific Railway, in keeping with this spirit, has arranged extremely low American Plan rates on a weekly or monthly basis, and these cover a really magnificent holiday and provide a complete escape from the spectre of gas, oil, and rubber. There is no joy greater than riding a sure-footed mountain pony along far-flung scenic trails, or in hiking above the clouds along what is literally the sky line.

The Banff-Springs Hotel golf course is internationally famous and justly so and is a continual challenge to experts and amateurs alike. There is much to do at Banff and a splendid holiday in the doing.

During the day, some civilian workmen were employed near the wire fence and at noon hour or thereabouts, two Huns donned khaki overalls, took up a ladder and placed it against the wire, pretended to be fixing some electric leads and simply walked up and down the ladder and were on the outside all unsuspected by nearby guards who assumed they were genuine civilian workmen. They strolled away and were next seen near the toll-gate hill by John Cruickshank as reported in The Statesman. Hon. Mr. Ralston no doubt had this in mind in his report to the House that the weakness was in the "human element."

Meantime, since the two latest escapes are back "home" tension has relaxed; guards get brief down-town leave; the Huns grin good-naturedly as they plan the "next time" and they play football, tend their gardens, eat excellent meals, swim in the marble pool and consume about 1200 cases of beer each week. One wonders why they try to escape from such palatial premises.

Our Air Offensive

IN RECENT weeks the air offensive launched by the R.A.F. against Germany and German-held military and naval bases in Europe, has awakened a feeling of optimism among people of the United Nations. After being for many months on the defensive, it has been heartening to see telling blows from the air delivered against German war industries and strategic points held by the Germans. Captain Harold Balfour, British Undersecretary for Air, who headed the British mission at the United Nations' Air Conference at Ottawa, said of these raids: "It is a positive offensive, and constitutes a second front in the air. We are holding a large force of German fighters over the West which they would dearly like to send East. We have also forced the Nazis to retaliate on England with bombers they could put to better advantage over Russia." At present about eight hundred planes are available to take part in these R.A.F. attacks and it is expected that it will soon be possible to send over a thousand at one time.

Effect Of Recent Raids

A recent raid on the City of Lubeck was of such proportions that it can now be designated on a map only as having once been hit. The term "Lubecking" is now used in referring to devastating air offensives, and as Prime Minister Churchill said in his last radio address, the R.A.F. has many other places in Germany marked out for similar treatment. On humanitarian grounds there can be little objection to this offensive. It is the most effective way of bringing the war to the German people, and with the memory of the cruel raids on England in 1940 and 1941, it may be surmised that it is the only form of war that the German people understand. How great will be the effects on the morale of the German people, we cannot accurately determine, but that it will affect it in no small degree, we can be sure.

Axis Can Be Defeated

There is danger, however, in feeling any undue optimism over the results of this air offensive. The Axis nations are still strong and there is no indication that they can be soon or easily broken. Some interesting facts about the strength of the Nazis in Europe have been given by American newspaper correspondents who have recently returned in an exchange of nationals between Germany and America. These writers, many of whom have spent months in internment camps, are confident that the Axis can be defeated, but they emphasize that it can only be by an "all out" effort on the part of the United Nations. They tell us that the people of Germany and Italy are feeling the strain, but that the Nazi machine is still strong and that Hitler is determined on victory in 1942. However, it may well be that the large-scale air attacks now commenced will mark a turning point of the war, and the beginning of an Allied offensive which will gather in proportions until the Axis nations are brought to defeat.

A Useless Order

No Need To Tell Germans Not To Accept Substitutes

Alvin J. Steinkopf, Associated Press Staff writer, says: "Don't accept substitutes" would be idle advice to Germans nowadays—it takes their ingenuity just to keep life going anywhere near normal.

If there are no clothespins, the resourceful hausfrau hangs out the wash with odds and ends of old paper clips and safety pins.

Say she can't get toothpaste and has no illegal black market sources. A pretty good substitute is a mixture of soap, soda and baking powder.

A broken shoelace is an emergency. In southern Germany and Austria, where bunches of leather things are used for dusting some Germans separate old ones, sew strips together and get rawhide laces to last even through a long war.

There was one crisis in a Berlin household when the glass top of a percolator broke. An inquiry about a replacement would be a confession that one had coffee, hence suspicion that he dealt on the black market. Anyway, there are no percolators top. Solution: a milk bottle wedged into the top of the coffee pot.

The national income of Canada is defined as the net value of foods produced and services rendered during a given period states the Monthly Review of Business Statistics. An alternative definition is the sum of the positive or negative savings of enterprises and the income payments to individuals resident in Canada, including salaries and wages, workmen's compensation, pensions, dividends, interest, rentals and withdrawals of working proprietors.

Conditions In Greece

Atrocities Of The Gestapo Are Described By Man Who Escaped

Alexandre Minotis, leading actor of the Royal Theatre, Athens, who twice escaped from a German prison camp, is doing the only thing he wants to do at the moment—"breathing deeply of New York's free air."

"I hardly like to go to bed," he said, "for every time I close my eyes I see the panorama of suffering my people are undergoing. I see again the atrocities of the Gestapo. I see the dead and dying in the streets of Athens and I see the hopelessly starved women and children emaciated, suffering but never crying."

Minotis, who arrived in New York by Pan American Clipper rejoined his wife in New York.

On April 25, 1941, in company with 1,000 British, Greek and Yugoslav soldiers and 21 British nurses, Minotis left Greece on a ship which was bombed at Piraeus. He said that of the 1,000 aboard, 840 were killed.

Two nights later, German aviators came to the house in which he was quartered, told him they were the pilots who had bombed the ship, and took him prisoner.

In October, with seven Greek and British officers, he tried to escape to Turkey. Refused permission to land, he went to the island of Chios where he was picked up by a Gestapo officer who had seen him play in Frankfurt and Berlin.

Some time later the same officer helped him to escape to Athens, "because he admired my art," Minotis said, adding that he again left, for Turkey by small sailing boat and landed on the island of Phocis, a Turkish possession.

The Individual Citizen's Army

A Weekly Column About This And That In The Canadian Army.
By Alan Maurice Irwin

An 18-year-old man of my acquaintance came to me with a tale of woe yesterday. He had been to the Recruiting Centre to enlist and had been turned down because of a hernia.

That young man had two courses open to him. He could go to the Navy and the Air Force, be medically examined, rejected—and get a "Rejected" button which would, in the eyes of the public, permit him to devote himself to an occupation paying more than $130 a day, clothes and keep, without reproach. The other course was to pay out of his own pocket for an operation which will make him fit for service.

Which course did he take? Well, I called him a MAN of 18, didn't I?

There is nothing much more to be written on this subject, is there?

One of the hardest things any old soldier has to do is to learn not only to keep his mouth shut on the question of enlistment but to keep his thoughts in order as well. It is fatally easy to look at a strapping fellow in civilian clothes and wonder "why the blankety-blank he isn't in khaki!" It is not so easy to marshal your thoughts and weigh the many reasons that may exist.

I suppose the principal reason that such thought control is necessary is the fact that very few men you see wearing C.R.F. buttons today were "conscripts." It has been brought out in the House of Commons time and again that the number of conscripted soldiers who reached France in 1917-18 was a very small proportion of the Canadian Expeditionary Force.

One great unfairness in public thinking and newspaper editorials it seems to me, is the constant direction of blasts at youth. Grant that this is a young man's war. Grant that some steps are being taken in the direction of thinning out the older officers—you still don't see Generals in their thirties.

And I don't think you should. Nevertheless it is still a matter for comment when a man in his late twenties is promoted to Major.

Let's have the emphasis on the younger man—not the youth. Let's fill our administrative and training staffs with older, but not aging men.

We are not being fair to the man who was too young to do his bit in 1914-1918. He missed that because of youth. He's missing this one because he's "too old." Too old to fight, that is.

Maybe none of us will be too old to fight!

In the meantime if anyone is to lose his present opportunities for a space let's give some consideration to the man who is established. He can something to go back to. He has had a chance and will pick up the threads again when he goes back.

Besides, his business training can be useful in the Army. He can do a real job in administrative, quartermaster, ordnance, transport and similar services. At these jobs he can release some of the young, fit men doing that kind of work in Ottawa and other headquarters today.

Sure it's a young man's war—a war that can use, and use well, men in their middle twenties; a war, to judge by the pictures of Russian, Polish, Yugo-Slavian guerrillas, that can find the right niche for a young man of any age.

So let's not look too askance at the young fellow of 19-23. Perhaps they will be the better soldier for a chance first to appreciate that they have a stake in the country.

And those of us who are condemned to be civilians what about us? There is plenty for us to do. And most of it is so easy. That's probably what makes it so hard!

We can stop be-deviling some of our fellow-civilians who have undertaken the thankless task of trying to teach us to be sensible. We can start making things easier for storekeepers, wholesalers and manufacturers who are getting together and advising the Wartime Prices and Trade Board how best it can control their businesses for the common good.

FREEDOM

There are two freedoms—the false, where a man is free to do what he likes; the true, where a man is free to do what he ought.—Charles Kingsley.

It is impossible to mentally or socially enslave a Bible-reading people. The principles of the Bible are the ground-work of human freedom.—Horace Greeley.

Do you wish to be free? Then above all things love God, love your neighbor, love one another, love the common weal; then you will have true liberty.—Savonarola.

The letter of the law of God, separated from its spirit, tends to demoralize mortals, and must be corrected by a diviner sense of liberty and light.—Mary Baker Eddy.

Stand fast therefore in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, and be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage.—Galatians 5:1.

None are more hopelessly enslaved than those who falsely believe they are free.—Goethe.

OPINION OF NAZIS

Here, from captured German documents, is what the Nazis think of the British Tommy encountered in the Middle East desert warfare: "a tough and hard opponent as an individual fighter, highly skilled in defence, unimaginative and inflexible in attack, cold-blooded and skilled in in-fighting."

OVER A THOUSAND CANADIAN AIRMEN TOOK PART IN RAID THAT FLATTENED OUT COLOGNE

(Canadian Press)
London.—More than 1,000 Canadian airmen took part in Saturday night's aerial smash at the heart of the industrial Ruhr and the Rhineland, it was authoritatively estimated.

Four squadrons of the Royal Canadian Air Force, including one flying four-engined bombers for the first time, and hundreds of other Canadians in the R.A.F. flew in this aerial armada which crossed its target at the rate of one bomber every six seconds.

It was estimated that about one in six of the more than 6,000 airmen taking part in the gigantic raid was a Canadian. The others were Britons, Australians and airmen from other parts of the Empire and the Allied air forces—Poles, Czechs and Free French.

The raid, a masterpiece of organization, was the first over Germany for many of the young Canadians. Veterans of scores of previous attacks assured them there had never before been anything like it.

Returning pilots said planes were over Cologne in such numbers that German gun crews and searchlight defenders were unable to concentrate on any single machine or follow it through as it made its bombing run over the target.

Every Canadian was in high spirits when he got back, for there was no question of the effectiveness of the job done. All agreed there had never been a blaze comparable with the one they had left behind them.

The R.C.A.F. bombing squadrons were commanded by Wing Commanders D. A. R. Bradshaw of London, Ont.; Johnny Multon of Winnipeg; Johnny Paquiere of Ottawa, and A. C. P. Clayton of Vancouver.

While they were laying waste to the German city other Canadian airmen in coastal command aircraft and a fleet of Boston bombers were playing a part in diversionary raids.

The Canadian airmen said they were amazed at the feeble opposition from anti-aircraft fire and night fighters.

Faugier, who has been on many raids before, said he found the night's work one of his easiest operations. Sqdn-Ldr. Len Fraser of Winnipeg, another veteran bomber, called it "a piece of cake."

P.O. L. G. Higginson of Montreal, captain of the first aircraft to return in his squadron, gave the ground crews and station personnel first news of damage done.

He estimated the smoke column over Cologne at 8,000 feet, and Faugier, who landed a little later, added another 2,000 feet to that figure. Still later reconnaissance showed smoke had risen to 15,000 feet.

"It was a bigger blaze than Luc Beck," said Higginson, referring to the smashing attack last March on the German Baltic port. Others in the Squadron who had been in both operations agreed.

T'd estimate nearly seven-eighths of Cologne was in flames," Faugier said. "When we got there I almost felt like leaving to find another target. It didn't seem possible we could do any more damage than had already been done."

P.O. H. J. M. Lacelle of Toronto, a rear gunner, said he saw London burning during the Battle of Britain and "that was nothing compared with Cologne."

Many navigators were able to reach the target without the aid of instruments, as soon as they came within 100 miles of Cologne.

"The glow in the sky told us where it was," said P.O. W. H. Baldwin of Ottawa, navigator of one huge four-engined bomber. "We couldn't miss it."

"I've never seen anything like it," added Sgt. H. W. (Happy) Porritt of Vancouver. "I don't know how the bomb aimers managed to do their aiming. There was such a mass of flames below you couldn't pick out one spot from another."

Similar reports of huge fires blazing fiercely throughout the city were given by Navigator P.O. F. A. F. W. Gerty of Abbotsford, B.C., and Pilot Sgt. W. L. Scott of Yorkton, Sask., a pilot.

ARE NOW LIABILITIES

Belgian Worker Says Overrun Countries Are Worry To Hitler
London.—A Belgian socialist worker told British Labor leaders that "Hitler will be beaten on his own production front as surely as on other fronts."

Speaking at the Labor party's annual conference, Louis de Brouckere described sabotage by Belgian workers and said one manufacturer estimated Belgian production has been reduced by 60 per cent.

"Hitler has found the overrun countries are no longer assets," De Brouckere said. "They have become liabilities. Hitler can take soil, material, machinery, but he cannot subdue the freedom of free peoples."

De Brouckere spoke at the close of the second day session, which was devoted almost entirely to routine discussion of resolutions ranging from plans for the post-war world to demands for increases in service men's pay.

ALBERTA TAR SANDS

Consider Building A Pipeline From The North
Ottawa.—Resources Minister Crerar told the House of Commons that "responsible interests" have considered building a pipeline from the northern Alberta tar sands area to southern centres.

The minister spoke during continued debate on a bill to amend the Alberta Natural Resources Act to cover an agreement on oil lease royalty rates in Alberta.

J. R. MacNicol (Con., Toronto-Davenport) raised the question of tar sands development, and Mr. Crerar said the first use of the tar sands was in the form of material for road surfacing in Edmonton and at Jasper National park. There was no longer any question of the suitability of the material for road surfacing.

Mr. Crerar said it is likely that in the future the tar sands will be "an active proposition" as a source of oil.

Mr. MacNicol said the minister should send experts from his department to northern Alberta with instructions to obtain oil from the sands.

U.S. MILITARY MISSION TO LONDON TO MAKE PLANS FOR A EUROPEAN LAND OFFENSIVE

(Canadian Press)
Washington.—The implications of the U.S. military mission to London are receiving ever-increasing attention in the American press, particularly the statement by Lt.-Gen. Breton B. Somervell, commander of the army supply service, that the U.S. stands ready to furnish "men and materials on a large scale to a European battlefield" despite large commitments to Australia and India.

It seems to be the general opinion in Washington that the military mission has two primary purposes.

1. To make long-range plans for American participation in a western European land offensive.
2. To make short-range plans, particularly on the supply side, for American participation in the air offensive against Germany and German-held territory in Europe.

Military observers here believe that Germany is about to undergo a sustained air offensive the like of which the world has never seen, designed not only to cripple Germany's industrial fabric but to relieve the pressure on the Russian armies in the east.

It is regarded as significant that the military mission is headed by Lt.-Gen. Henry Arnold, commanding general of the army air forces who was accompanied by Rear Admiral John Towers, in charge of naval aviation. It also has been noted here that Brig-Gen. William Lee, who commands the newly-formed paratroopers and air-borne infantry of the U.S. army, went along.

It seems likely the U.S. is preparing to take a hand in the air offensive against Germany, working in co-operation with the R.A.F. and the R.C.A.F. which have been hammering Germany with mounting intensity for weeks.

The military mission probably is discussing such questions as unified command, the disposition of air fields, the pooling of fighter planes, bombing plans and other supplies and other major questions that can be settled only by general staff officers.

Military observers here who are acquainted with the enormous difficulties, principally the inadequacy of shipping, that stand in the way of an Allied land offensive in Western Europe, believe that air operations on a larger scale are a likelier proposition this summer.

However, it has been clearly indicated by the public remarks of the members of the military mission, that a land offensive also is under discussion in London.

It is not apparent at the moment what effect the Libyan drive of the Germans will have on the conversations in London but it might hasten the stepped-up air offensive to relieve pressure in the Middle East.

Although there can be no doubt the Russians would like to see a second European front opened, there is no confirmation here of reports that Russia has been putting pressure on Washington and London to hurry up.

YUGOSLAV ARMY

Plans Are Being Pushed To Train Force In Canada

Ottawa.—While Gen. Draja Mihailovitch and his elusive Chetniks battle the Nazis in the mountains of their native country, the government of Yugoslavia pushes plans for the training of a new army and air force in Canada, to fight the Nazis from the outside.

Dr. Isidor Cankar, first Yugoslav minister to Canada in an interview with The Canadian Press expressed appreciation of the hospitality recently granted by Canada to the forces of his country.

Dr. Cankar said he hoped training of Yugoslav forces would start soon but declined to say where it would take place. He said there are a considerable number of Yugoslav citizens in various parts of North and South America, some of whom may join their country's forces.

OFFICERS' UNIFORMS

No More Cuffs Or Pleated Trousers Will Be Allowed

Ottawa.—Wartime restrictions have hit the sartorial elegance of Canada's army officers. Defence headquarters announces that officers no longer will be allowed to order uniform trousers with cuffs or pleated fronts. The ruling was laid down in a routine army order as a result of a request by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. It states that although those in possession of pleated trousers with cuffs may wear them out, the smart thing will be to wear the cuffless, pleatless style.

REVIEW OF NAZI AIR STRENGTH WOULD INDICATE THAT GERMAN AIR POWER IS ON THE DECLINE

London.—Germany's first-line air strength on all fronts can hardly exceed 5,000 machines, the authoritative magazine Aeroplane, said in a review of the Nazi air position.

"Although the Luftwaffe is still a formidable force which still can hit very hard, it is definitely losing that degree of superiority which enabled the armed German forces to gain their spectacular successes of early days of the war," the publication said.

The magazine listed the present distribution of the Nazi air force as, approximately:

Western Europe—About 1,300 operational aircraft in northern and southern France, and Norway, where there are an estimated 300 machines.

Mediterranean—About 1,300 in North Africa, Italy, Sicily, Greece and Crete.

Central Europe—About 600 in Germany and the Balkans including two night-fighter divisions in Germany.

Russian front—About 1,600.

The estimated total of 5,000 would not include reserve aircraft, or transports. It compared with the estimated 6,500 first-line aircraft Germany had at the start of the Russian campaign, and 4,000 at the end of 1941.

The article noted that flying equipment of Germany's air force had improved in the past year, but added that the introduction of new fighters and bombers could not make good shortcomings in other fields.

These shortcomings as enumerated by Aeroplane are:

1. Loss of valuable leaders and experienced pilots.
2. Loss through training.
3. Wider distribution forced on the Nazi air force.
4. Heavy losses in Russia and over Malta.

HOUSE OF COMMONS WARNED OF AN ACUTE LABOR SHORTAGE ON FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA

Ottawa.—E. E. Perrey (Con., Qu'Appelle) warned in the House of Commons of "a very acute situation in respect to labor" in western Canada when he dealt with the prospects for harvest help this year.

Harvesting conditions would be different this year, he said, as coarse grains acreage had been increased and this meant additional manual labor would be required to bring in the crop.

"We are to have a very acute situation in respect to labor in the west," he said.

The house was debating the war appropriation bill in committee of the whole, with the national war services department up for consideration.

Mr. Perrey said farmers had completed their seeding operations under difficult conditions due to shortage of labor. Enlistments from western Canadian farms were heavy, while others had left the farms for eastern industrial employment. Women and girls had also left the west, and many of them were from the farms.

War Services Minister Thorson said that consideration is being given young men who have not been called to compulsory military service because they have taken training in the Reserve army.

Mr. Thorson said it was recognized there were certain "anomalies" in the existing situation.

The suggestion had been made that those taking Reserve army training should be pooled with others of the compulsory training ages and made subject to call for service in the ordinary way.

As the regulations stand, young men in the Reserve army who attend parades faithfully are not liable to call. If they fail to attend the required number of parades, they may be called to compulsory training.

"Consideration now is being given question of how to deal with men who are presently in Reserve army, and therefore excused from training while undertaking their Reserve army training in a satisfactory manner," Mr. Thorson said.

A departmental committee would be set up in his department to review suggestions arising from a recent conference with university representatives, officials of national war services boards, and those coming from the house debate.

The National war services regulations would be examined in the light of existing conditions and some revisions were to be expected.

Conservative House Leader Hanson said any revision of the regulations should be dealt with by parliament. Discussion of changes in the house might prove beneficial.
